

Employee Spotlight

Charles Carter

Name: Charles Carter, Superintendent, Recently wrapped up the Alderwood Tanks, now working at Kimberly Clark, 22 years, 11 months, 14 days! But who's keeping track?

Do you have any Nicknames? Pappy... posthumously named by a crew of misfits in Denver Uncle Fester... named by the Smurf (Jimmy Lusk) Tallgear... Named years ago by Brian DeBoer while driving for the shop Catfish.. Named by family as a kid for being the one to always take the catfish off the hook of the trot lines!

Where are you from? Originally - Anchorage AK but raised in Beaumont, Texas

Where would you like to travel? An extended vacation in the Australian OutBack

How did u get one of your scars? Surgery on my left ankle, broken playing tackle football on New Years Day 1981. After climbing an 8' fence at a high school stadium to play on a real field, the gates were locked. Yes we were all hungover!

What book do you think everyone should read? The Secret.. Not just read it but understand it!

Do you like to cook? I do! No recipes, just good from the hip southern style concoctions. I have a pretty good track record when it comes to wanting 2nds. Ribs, Fried Turkey's and all kinds of sausage.

Do you have any great advice? Have respect for yourself, Respect for others and be responsible for your actions, Always.

What is your most entertaining, work related story? I punked Marty Horgan in Denver Colorado. Marty was lead to believe my D&B truck was sprayed with bullets. He was at the airport travelling to Denver when he received the call (planned) and had to plan his damage control during the flight; Mark Rondeau called when he landed so he would have someone to share it with. He called the authorities on his drive to the site and anxiously arrived wanting to view the damage. His grand plans to rent a truck and keep the news from the customer and media attention was shattered when he saw the fake bullet holes stuck on the truck. And yes the look on his face was priceless when he wanted to strangle me.

My name is Charles Carter; My Company is Dunkin & Bush, Inc.