Scott Frady

Name: Scott Frady – Painter Trainee – Scott’s unforgettable personality and sense of humor is sure to stick with you long after you first meet him. Recently Scott completed his online Vivid training in less than 2 hours, possibly setting a new record! We’re consulting the record books.

If you were playing hide and seek, where would you hide? I would probably hide under the bed, or maybe on the roof

What song do you always sing out loud in your car and don’t care if anyone else is watching? “California Gurls,” by Katie Perry. I was singing it in my car the other day with the windows rolled down when this guy pulled up next to me, looked over, and just shook his head

What are three things you would take with you on a road trip? I would take my son, my daughter, and my other son

My job is to ... support my family

At what point during the date were you confident it was never going to work out? When she ordered the lobster

What did you want to be when you were little? At one point, I wanted to be a painter, just like my daddy

You just robbed a bank, how do you spend the money? In Nevada...

Superbowl 2006, do you honestly believe the Steelers won? YES. The Seahawks choked, it’s what they do.
