What is your favorite Dunkin & Bush related story? Several years ago I told one of our new PMs that everyone dressed up for Halloween in the office. He was really excited because he had a cool costume he wanted to wear. Halloween morning I stopped at the local coffee stand and they were laughing about a guy that had stopped for coffee wearing a clown costume with full makeup. When I got to work it was the PM. He wasn't too happy since no one else was in costume but we all had a good laugh!
